

Is Scotland's Historic Environment Data Fit for the Future?

HES, John Sinclair House, 16 Bernard Terrace, Edinburgh EH8 9NX

10.00am – 5.00pm

	Teas and Coffees available
10.15	Welcome and Introductions	Susan Hamilton (HES)
10.30	Introduction from DataFest Global
10.35	Assessing Risk Using Archaeological Data: Challenges and Solutions	Victoria Olesky & Laura O'Connor (AOC Archaeology)
11.00	Towards a Spatial Data Infrastructure for Archaeology	Peter Mckeague (Historic Environment Scotland)
11.15	Coffee break
11.30	Data challenges – the Highland HER perspective	Ian Scrivener-Lindley (Highland Council)
11.50	Discovery and Excavation in Scotland and its significance to Scottish Archaeology	Alison Sheridan (Archaeology Scotland)
12.10	Heritage Hub; Linking Historic Environment Scotland Data	Alex Adamson (Historic Environment Scotland)
12.30	LUNCH - Provided
13.15	Preparing for Trusted Digital Repository Accreditation: FAIR Data and TRUST Principles	Stuart MacDonald (Historic Environment Scotland)
13.35	Creating Assets for the Future of the Past	Richard Rodger (emeritus Professor Edinburgh University)
14.10	Locating a National Collection	Gethin Rees (British Library)
14.30	Coffee break
14.40	The RSPB and Archaeology	Jill Harden (RSPB)
15.00	Extracting and Sharing Data from Historical Maps	Chris Fleet (National Library of Scotland)
15.20	Workshop: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Introduction</li> <li>• Workshop</li> <li>• Wrap-up</li> </ul>	Open Data; the benefits and challenges that a more open system can bring us. Our discipline has many stakeholders from national organisations, local authorities to the third and commercial sectors, not to mention and interested and engaged community. How do we realise the potential of the data we all create and use?
16.35	Thank you and next steps	